

lyrics - little mountains

Little Mountains

Carl Pannuzzo

There may never be the time to cry all that I gotta cr
What could take away the shame that makes us feel we have to lie

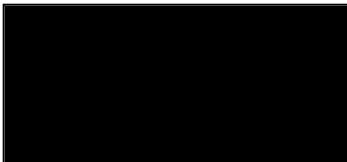

Everyday is a lifetime away
And every lifetime as long as the moment we return
To the love that we know that we hold for each other

All these little, little mountains
We climb everyday, in the air we stay hanging or
All these little, little mountains
That we climb everyday, in the air we pray hanging or
And we may fall,
But there'll always be more, always be more to climb

How do we fear when they're all here?
Every moment we've ever lived is with us now.
Every precious moment fills our minds
Is it the blessing or is it the disguise?
It's the worst thing in the world
And it's a learning every day
And it's every heart's collection
Of accumulated fear
The things that prey on our emotion
And the things we've never been

All these little, little mountains
We climb every day, in the air we pray hanging or
All these little, little mountains
That we climb every day, in the air we stay hanging or
And we may fall,
But there'll always be more
All ways be more to climb

There may never be the time to cry all that I've got to cr
What could take away the shame that makes us feel we have to lie
Every day is a lifetime away
And every lifetime as long as the moment we return
To the love
That we know
That we hold
For each other

lyrics - little mountains

'Tumble' by Simon Nugent

All the good lookers go home sometime
Blow a kiss into the mirror with their lovers goodnight
And lovers' heads down to pillows in the dark
But they couldn't tell the face and the darkness apart

Maybe we might have plotted a way
To make it right up on top of the day (yeh yeh yeh)
Then tumble to the side that we don't know
And we mumble to the universe and then it's time to go

Legislate me to death and community back to life
You never know what's gonna come next so hold on tight

Maybe we might have plotted a way...etc

What it is I wish I knew
If a stranger met your eye would you
I don't know I wish I did
Through the day I thought I understood

Give a smile because you should -stretch...
Your intake to the last
Then an end that meant so well
And sell off a moment before you go

Maybe we might have plotted a way...etc

What it is I wish I knew
If a stranger met your eye would you
(repeat)...

